

My mind is tired

And moves like molasses

Slow and sluggish.

Mired in pain and sorrow

The past intruding like a thief

Trying to steal the present.

My soul is like a forest pool, deep, dark, reflecting the light away.

Shuttered tight,

like a window on a stormy night,

Protecting whatever lies within.